VON CAPRIVI RESIGNS.

The German Chancellor Retires to Private Life.

ZU EULENBERG ALSO RETIRES.

The Crisis Brought About Through Differences on Socialist Repressive Measures. Report That the Emperor Has Called Prince Bohenlohe to the Chancellorship.

Berlin, Oct. 27.—A great stir was caused a well informed quarters here yesterday afternoon by the receipt of a telegram rom Cologne giving the substance of an rticle in the semi-official Cologne Gazette which stated that Chancellor Von Caprivi id Count Botho Zu Eulenberg, president the Prussian council of ministers, had signed. It is known that for some time ist there has been considerable tension etween the chancellor and Count Zu ulenberg, owing to the former's views in gard to the measures to be submitted to e reichstag for the repression of socialm. The chancellor is in favor of purning a moderate policy, while Count Zu ulenberg believes in the adoption of dical measures to obtain the end sought. Throughout the evening the streets were ronged with excited crowds inquiring r further news in regard to the minisrial crisis, intelligence of which had read through the city with great rapid-Only one newspaper published an ex-edition, which was largely bought.

It has been definitely learned that the ancellor resigned before a meeting of presentative statesmen of the federal ates, which was held yesterday afteron. This meeting showed the existence great discord regarding the proposed ati-revolutionary bill. Count Zu Eulen-

That months past the chancellor's adveres had been straining every nerve to ct his downfall was well known, and ough it may be less generally known re can be no doubt that about a fortthr ago they had reason to believe that ir object would be attained. He often expressyd a desire to retire to military life, and only remained in office from a sense of duty to his country. He will, in a few days, proceed to Geneva for his health.

The question of who will succeed Count Von Caprivi is the subject of general discussion everywhere. A rumor is in circulation that Dr. Johannes Miquel, Prussian minister of finance, will be appointed, but this report is declared on good authority to be unfounded. In addition to Dr. Miquel, both Count Zu Eulenberg and Dr. Von Bennigsen, leader of the National Liberal Ja ty and governor of Hanover, are mentioned by: are mentioned, but it is believed that the new chancellor will be a compromise can-

General Count Georg Leo Von Caprivi de Capera de Monte-Cucculi succeeded Prince Bismarck as chancellor of the German empire shortly after the latter's retirement in March, 1890. He was born at Charlottenburg in 1831, being the son of a high legal functionary in the service of Prussia. He has served his country with distinction in both the army and navy, as well as in civil life.

NO COMPULSORY ASSESSMENTS.

Civil Service Commission So Reports on Philadelphia's Postoffice.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The civil service commission has issued a report on the charges made of political assessments of federal employes in Philadelphia. The commission finds after investigation "that there has been very-little attempt at assessment in either the postoffice or custom house, so far as the classified service is concerned, the very great majority of the clerks, carriers, etc., being left free to contribute to either party as they wished. In the mint the vast majority of the employes were men appointed for political reasons from the ranks of the dominant party These people have received circulars ask ing them to contribute, and again remind ing them of their failure to contribute it they did not do so on the first request. Apparently there was no violation of the law committed in the way these circulars were sent, and there was certainly no duress exereised by the head of the mint or his subordinates to make them contribute."

The report concludes: "Until offices like the mint are classified they cannot be taken out of politics, and until they are taken out of politics they will always be good fields for the operation of the collector of political assessments."

Imprisoned Miners Alive.

IRON MOUNTAIN. Mich., Oct. 27 .- The only fact established at this hour is that a number of the men imprisoned at the Pewable mine are alive. Communications were established by means of hammering on rocks. The men are well supplied with air. Superintendent Brown is certain that at least eight of the men have escaped uninjured, but Years there may have been some caught under the falling walls, and crushed to death. Around the shaft are gathered large crowds of relatives, including wives of the imprisoned miners, and the uncertainity of the face of loved ones makes the scene a particularly heart rend-

To Lay a Pacific Cable.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27 - Sanford Fleming, commissioner from the Canadian government to Hawaii, in the interest of the proposed Canadian Australian cable, arrived here on the steamer Alameda. In an interview Mr. Fleming declared that there was nothing secret about their mission. The governments of Canada and Australia, he said, have resolved to lay a Pacific cable. There are a number of islands in possession of Great Britain between Australia and Canada across which the cable might be stretched.

Fifteen Rounds to a Draw.

BUFFALO, Oct. 27. - Solly Smith and Johnnie Van Heest fought a fifteen round draw before 1,000 people at the rooms of the Buffalo Athletic club last night. Billy Madden managed the affair. Yank Sullivan, of Syracuse, refereed the bout, and Tom Eck was timekeeper. The fighting in the first five tounds was fast and furions. If anything Van Heest had a shade the better of it. Smith got first blood, Towords the end it was evident that the fighters were afraid of one another. The fighters will divide $1,2 a).

SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS ROBBED.

Mysterious Disappearance of Money from the Strong Boxes at Omaha.

OMAHA, Oct. 27.-The fact was made public last evening that the safety deposit vault - ection of the Omaha National bank had been robbed, and in so dexterious a manner that no clew to the manner in which the work was done is obtainable. Large sums of money have been taken from boxes in the vault, and the exact amount of the losses cannot be known until all have been examined. The discovery was made more than two weeks ago and every precaution has been taken by the bank officials to keep the matter a close

The principal loser is William Gladish. Last March he placed in his box $2,700 in gold. On Oct. 5 he discovered that about $1,200 of the amount was missing. He at once notified President Millard of the bank, and the investigation commenced. Sofar, however, all efforts to discover the manner in which the money was lost have failed. The vaults are under the management of a lady who is in every way fitted for the responsibility of the position she holds. No shadow of suspicion exists that the losses have occurred through her knowledge or connivance. The safety vaults are modelled after the latest system in the country and the private boxes are surrounded with every safeguard. The bank officials or detectives offer no explanation other than to declare it is not due to the carelessness of the bank employes. All deposits are guaranteed by the bank.

Trade Paralyzed by a Strike. New Orleans, Oct. 27.-The screwmen inaugurated a strike on the river front yesterday. The trouble grows out of the recent difficulties between the white and blacks. Trouble has been brewing between them for some time, and the appearance at the front of firms of negro stevedores hiring negro screwmen has served to accentuate it. A fortnight since the white screwmen held a meeting and decided not to work any longer for ship agents or other employers of negro labor. The result was that many of the negroes were knocked off. Yesterday every ship loading in the port was stopped and all hands laid off. The trade of the port is for the ime being practically paralyzed.

Fall River Weavers Still on Strike.

FALL RIVER. Mass., Oct. 27.-Messis. Walcott and Barry, of the state board of arbitration, held a consultation with the weavers committee, but nothing was accomplished toward ending the strike, although it was explained to the strikers that the margin at which the old wages was to be restored after sixty days was eighty-five cents. The manufacturers are of the opinion that the weavers will return to work next Monday, as they now know that they can hope for no concessions. The union will discuss the situation at a meeting this evening.

Tonglaks Harassing the Japs.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 27.-It is reported here using much trouble to the Japanese in Corea, especially in Conshan, Chunchow and Chola, Tonghaks are said to be disposed to march upon Seoul. Some Corean troops and Japanese gendarmes were sent to quell a disturbance caused by the Tonghaks, and, according to report from a Japanese source, the ringleader and ninety-one rebels were captured and one of the leaders and 180 rebels were killed in a conflict which took place on Oct. 5.

Constable McLendon's Defense,

DARLINGTON, S. C., Oct. 27.-The trial of McLendon for murder, resulting from the operations of the dispensary law, was continued, the defense presenting their case. McLendon gave his testimony, and Mayor Dargen was also on the stand. The case will, it is expected, go to the jury this evening. The charges preferred against W. J. Skinner, his son and Sheriff Scarborough for effecting McLendon's escape from jail immediately after the murder were dismissed by the grand jury.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

Political Excitement Causes a Natural Slackening,

BUT INDICATIONS ARE FAVORABLE.

Prices of Farm Products, However, Do Not Improve Much, and There Are Still Some Strikes to Resist Reductions in Wages-Fewer Business Failures.

New York, Oct. 27.-R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Engrossing political excitement in many of the states causes a natural slackening in some kinds of business. But on the whole business indications are rather more favorable than they were a week ago. Gold exports have ceased, quite a number of mills have gone into operation and the demand for products, if not equal to that of prosperous years, is better than it has been most of the time this ye.r. The prices of farm products do not improve much, and there are still some strikes to resist reduction of wages, so that the purchasing power of the people cannot have materially increased, but there is a more hopeful spirit which prompts greater activity. On the other hand the record of past transactions is somewhat less favorable than of late. Payments through the principal clearing houses throughout the country show a decrease of 1.2 per cent. compared with last year, and a decrease of 21.9 per cent. compared with the same week in 1892, the decrease for four weeks being 29.8 per cent.

Cotton has sold at 5.81 cents for middling uplands, and the large receipts at such low prices indicate clearly that the crop will at least be close to the largest, if not the largest, ever produced. The anticipated settlement of difficulties at Fall River has not been realized, and at present a good many spindles and looms are idle. But strikes are temporary; a more lasting influence is the large accumulation of cotton in the world's markets, the stock of American in sight new exceeding 2,000,000 bales. It is interesting that in spite of the low price of the southern crop manufacturers and wholesale dealers report rather more improvement in trade with the south than with any other section. The wheat market is a quarter lower, and nothing appears to justify any important change. In iron and steel the west shows weakness, while eastern markets show more encouragement. Nothing of consequence is doing in rails, the deliveries for the year to Oct. 1 being only 520,000 tons, much below ordinary requirements for renewals alone: In structural work some moderate contracts are reported, but bar iron is extremely duil, and it is stated that the low prices reported last week, 95 cents for iron and $1 for steel, have been shaded in some transactions.

The faitures for the week were 231 in the United States, against 352 for the same week last year, and fifty-two in Canada against forty-four last year.

Bradstreets review says: Merchants in terviewed in various portions of the country report in some instances the condition of business as not having realized auticipations, and at other points that the recent bright outlook for trade is modified. Such advices are based in part on the practical conclusion of the fall trade and delays in d mand for holiday goods. Dealers in dry goods, clothing, groceries, shoes, hats and a few other lines have had relatively the more satisfactory volume of business, although in many instances fault has been found with the totals shipped. General trade continues checked throughout some portions of the regions supplied by Kausas City, St. Louis, Omaha, Minneapolis and St. Paul, due to unseasonably warm weather. At the south low prices for cotton continue to affect business unfavorably, many larger merchants being more cautious as to granting credits to interior merchants. Throughout a large portion of the region between Ohio and the northwest interior jobbers will continue to carry small stocks throughout the winter. Eastern dry goods jobbers report only low cost goods moving with any freedom, and the ontlook for a settlement of the Fall River strike less favorable.

LOSDON, Oct. 27 .-- A German bark that has arrived at Cardiff reports that during the storm on Friday she saw an unknown steamer, apparently of about 2,000 tons burd in founder near Hfracombe, Devonshire. All hands on board the steamer went down with her. The bark saw the disaster too late to render any assistance.

Guaderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption, and it seemed as if she could not survive them. SHEEHAN AGAIN ON THE STAND. [

The Police Commissioner Refuses to An swer Many Questions.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 .- Police Commissioner Sheehan was the target again yesterday for Mr. Goff's rapid fire guns, and, if not sensational, the evidence was decidedly interesting. Mr. Sheehan was accompanied to the court room by his brother, Lieutenant Governor Sheehan, who remained an interested spectator of the proceedings.

Under the long and protracted cross-examination which followed the commissioner several times flatly refused to answer questions, on the ground that they had no bearing on the police, the legitimate work of the committee.

After the subject of Long Island City contracts had been thoroughly gone over by Mr. Goff, resulting in nothing directly implicating Mr. Sheehan, but showing a good deal by inference, a jump was taken to New York. The question of pool rooms came up, and Mr. Sheehan testified that he had investigated those institutions by asking several pool room keepers if they paid money for police protection, but they had answered "no." Mr. Goff then asked him if he expected a criminal to come and convict himself. To this Mr. Sheehan did not reply. Mr. Sheehan was still on the stand when adjournment was taken.

The President's Legal Residence. WASHINGTON, Oct. 27. - No authoritative information can be obtained here respecting the direct question as to the president's purpose to write or not to write a letter announcing his desire that all Democrats should earnestly support the Democratic state ticket in New York. Nevertheless it is the opinion of many of his friends that he will not in any way interfere in the New York campaign. One of the president's closest friends made the statement today that Mr. Cleveland could not lawfully register or vote in New York. Mr. Cleveland himself, it is understood, has said that his legal residence was in Washington. It can be stated further that at the expiration of Mr. Cleveland's presidential term he will not again take up hisresidence in New York.

Samoan Rebels Still Defiant.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 27.—Advices re ceived from Samoa by the steamer Alameda report matters quiet there. There have been no recent conflicts between the rival native bands. All the warriors are still under arms, however, and the people of Apia are prepared for an outbreak to oc-cur at any time. The Samoan land com-mission, which had prepared to hold sit-tings in the district of Atua to dispose of cases there, were notified by the heads of the rebel party that they would not be allowed to do so. The letter sent was a most impertinent one. It is expected that the commission will now proceed to Atua on one of the warships.

Burglars Wreck a Bank.

OMAHA. Oct. 27.- A special from Malvern says: The Farmers' and Mechanics bank was visited by burglars during the night, and it is supposed that $2,000 in eash was stolen. Nitro-glycerine was used in opening the vaults. The thieves were evidently men who did not thoroughly understand the terrific effects of its use, for the building was practically blown to pieces and the money and other contents went crashing into the street. The explosion aroused the whole neighborhood. and the thieves left money scattered over the floor in their haste to get away.

A New Whisky Trust. TRENTON, Oct. 27.-Papers were filed in the secretary of state's office yesterday which indicate the formation of a new whisky trust. The papers comprise the articles of incorporation of a concern to be known as the Great White Spirit company, with a paid up capital of $5,000,000, the total authorized capital being limited by the charter to $50,000,000. The principal office and place of business of the company outside of the state of New Jersey will be Boston, Mass., but it will carry on business in various other states and territories of the United States.

The Coal War On.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 27 .- The coal war in this section is on, and every mine will be worked to its fullest capacity. The supply of empty cars alone will limit production, as few of the collieries have facilities for storing coal. Great quantities of coal are now moving both north and west. The impression here is that rates cannot be maintained, that the war will be short and sharp, and that the coal combination will

THE BIG PRAIRIE FIRES.

Still Devastating a Large Stretch of Territory.

A HUNDRED MILES BURNED OVER.

While the Path of the Flames Is Forty Miles Wide-Many Ranches Destroyed and Thousands of Cattle Perish-People Fleeing for Their Lives.

GORDON, Neb., Oct. 27. - The prairie fires now sweeping over the sand hills in this vicinity are doing immense damage. The flames are traveling with almost lightning rapidity and are consuming everything in their track. Thursday night the central portion of Sheridan and Cherry counties. In the track of the flames were the big Osborne and Spade ranches and a number of smaller ones. Not a vestige of these ranches now remain.

The fire broke out last Monday in the south sand hills, about fifty miles south of this place, and has burned already over a strip of country 100 miles in length by forty miles in width The fire is burning in an easterly direction. The flames burned all the range clean on the Spade ranch, belonging to Richards and Cairnes, and about 3,000 tons of hay, leaving about 1,000 tons. This ranch has 7,000 head of cattle and 175 head of horses, and it will necessitate the moving of the herd and out-fit up the White river in South Dakota.

The next ranch to burn was Stanbires. Bros.', who lost all the hay and all of their range. This ranch has 1.200 head of cattle. The next was Len Osborn's ranch, burning all his range and hay and his barn and outbuildings. The next was Miner's ranch, burning 300 tons of hay. The next ranch to go was Woodruff's, burning 400 tons of hay and all his range sheds. Mr. Baugh lost 500 tons of hay. The next was Mason's, burning him out of about 1,000 tons of hay. Davis lost 1,200 tons of hay. This is as far as the fire has gone. There are a number of small ranches burned. The loss from this fire at present will run up into the millions. The fire is reported to have reached Pullman, and the whole country in that neighborhood is a raging furnace. It is not known whether any lives were lost yesterday, but thousands of head of cattle have perished. People in the track of the fire are fleeing for their lives, leaving all their property to the mercy of the

He is the father of seventeen children.

She filled the depot full of lead from her pistol. After driving the frightened citizens off the street she galloped through & squad of deputy marshals and out of town in true bandit queen style.

Trade Organizations Recognize Hill-Services to the Workingmen-Veteran Soldiers Know That Hill Was Always One of Their Best Friends.

Napoleon went to Egypt. In his ab-Napoleon went to Egypt. In his absence the Austrians overran Italy and threatened to invade France. His return sent a thrill of joy throughout the French republic. In the battle of Marengo he defeated the Austrian army and sent it whirling toward the

This aprly ilustrates the present political situation in New York. David B. Hill went to the United States Senate. While he was fighting the battle of the people there, Republicans overran the of New York. The matchless political leader has returned from Egypt and a new Marengo is in sight; his acept ance of the nomination for Governor at the unanimous demand of a Demoat the unanimous demand of a Demo-cratic State convention has enthused the party from Montauk Point to Nia-gara and from Lake Champlain to Chamauqua. The young men are es-pecially enthused. Never were so many of them out on the political war-They are awake to the designs of the Republicans. They know, as Senator Hil has said, that the adoption by the people of the Republican amendment to the Constitution reap portioning the State, means Republican supremacy in the Legis'ature, despite the large Democratic majorities, for twenty years at least. While Connecticut Democrats are fighting and have been fighting against an unjust apportionment for years, the Republicans in New York are trying to put the same gives upon the wrists of the people. In Connecticut, New Haven with a hundred thousand population, is allowed only two representatives in the Assembly. The town of Union, casting only 112 votes, is allowed the same number. It is under such an apportionment that the Republicans have robbed the Democracy of a Governor in that State and invariably select a Republican United States Secator despite any majority the Democrats may have in the State. With the apportionment now proposed by the late Republican State Convention, New York will be placed in a similar position. The young men recognize the fact that every man's vote ough; to count for as much as any other man's vote. In Belgium some persons east three votes, others two, until the laborer is reached, when he is allowed only one. The apportionment in New York would place its citizens relatively in a similar position. A Republican vote would be worth more, politically speaking, than a Democratic vote. Senator Hill's denunciation of this Republican scheme is bearing good fruit. In New York and Brooklyn it will win him many a vote outside of party

Another encouraging sign for a Democratic victory is the fact that the great cities and in the smaller towns are growing brighter. This is undoubledly due to the settlement of the tariff question. All recognize the fact that the new b'l' ought to have a chance; even Tom Reed asserted this n his speech at Cooper Institute. He foresaw that this renewal of business prosperity would enure to the benefit of the Democratic party and he promised that if the Republicans won they would not change the bill. The Democrats promptly repealed the purchase ing clause of the Sherman act. The Republicans, by whose votes alone the b'H was passed, voted with the Demecrais for its repeal. Their votes showed that they believed the Sherman bill was a factor in creating the financial panie. It was owing to the opposition of Republican United States Senators that the passage of the new tariff bill was delayed; every Republican nerve in Congress was strained to prevent action upon both the Wilson and the Gorman bills. Matt Quay's vote alone defeated the free sugar clause. The bill as passed, reduces the profits of the Sugar Trust and has reduced the price of sugar. The free wool schedule, so ardenly denounced by the Republicans, has increased the price of wool, while the woollen schedule, so carefully prepared in the new tariff bill, has decreased the price of clothng. All these facts are having their hearing upon the State canvass. This is especially the case in New York and Brook'yn where the people reap the Business men are scanning the political situation very closely. They have long memories. They know that under Governor Hill's administration the State debt was practically wiped out and that business interests were taxed less than ever before. The veteran soldiers also have long memories. Governor Hill was always their friend. He frequently consulted Gen. Palmer when he was commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. The General is on record as having said that David B. Hill was always one of the best friends of the soldier. There is no ingratitude among the veterans. They discuss the situation among themselves and are falling into line rapidly, The trades unions are by no means forgetful of the man who has always battled for the interests of working men. Whatever may be their course with regard to local nominations, the bulk of the members of trade organizations wi'l stand by Senator Hill, "I believe in trade organizations." said, in his speech before the Central Labor Union of Buffalo, on Labor Day, September 7, 1891. His political course hears out this avowal. In 1871 he made a speech in the Assembly advocating the bill for the abolishing of the contract system. While he was Covernor all labor-bills were prompt ly approved and noné vetoed. He insisted upon the enforcement of the convict labor law. He advocated the Labor Commission and Arbitration, In his messages as well as in his speeches ho has made powerful appeals on behalf of the workingman. He has de-

His record as a friend of the workingman is thorough'y consistent and without a tinge of demagoguery. The efforts of his opponent to secure the services of an English coachman, despite the immigration law, stand in strong contrast to Senator Hill's action. The bulk of the labor vote throughout the State is sure to be for Governor Hill. Added to this, his consistent course with regard to the excise law makes the assurance doubly strong that the Democratic can didate for Governor is standing upon a sure foundation. It is a fight—a fight for principles and not for men. It is to be a hot fight. No quarter will be given nor asked. It is a fight that must be fought to a finish and the interests of the whole people, if not of the nation, are involved. NO RELIGIOUS TEST.

The Democratic Party Stands for Religi lons as Well as Civil Liberty.

Article VI, of the Constitution of the United States declares that "no religious test shall ever be required as a qual'fication to any office or public trust under the United States." It would, therefore, seem plain enough that under any reasonable construction, the requiring that an aspirant to office should be of a certain religion, or should not be of a certain religion, would be imposing a religious test prohibited by the constitution. In the first amendment the separation of regions from civil affairs is further provided for in the declaration that Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." The assault upon these principles by a secret organization which has cropped out in various places, led to the adoption by the Democratic State convention at Saratoga of a resolution that "We denounce as contrary to the spirit of our institutions any display of religious intolerance in political discussions. We deplore any attempt to proscribe candidates for office on the ground of religious belief, by secret organizations or otherwise. The Democratic party, which has always stood for political and religious freedom, does not hes tate to condemn all efforts to create a distinction among citizens because of difference in faith, as unworthy of an enlightened age and abhorrent to the instincts of American freemen." No religious test will No religious test will he tolerated or connived at by patriotic and intell.gent Americans. "The Democratic party stands in this State as it has ever stood, upon the platform of that relig ous liberty which is guaranteed by our constitution; and I arraign the Republican party for its covert sympathy with and encouragement of that proscriptive spir't which attempts to set up a religious fest as a qualification for official preferment in the dand of the pree, and which is propogated by a certain political organization, which deserves execuation at the hands of every fair minded man, but which the Republican State convention distinctly refused to condemn, though carnestly urged to do so."-David B. Hill.

The Veteran Soldiers Grateful to Rill. Senator Hill's popularity among the veteran soldiers, says the Albany Times-Union, is accounted for by the fact which was stated by Capt, John Palmer, now the Republican Secretary of State, and formerly commander-inchief of the Grand Army. In a speech reported in the New York Tribune of August 11, 1891. Capt. Palmer said: "I here desire to acknowledge publicly my obligation to Governor Hill for many generous favors extended to the veterans at my solicitation-both as a representative of the Buard of Trustees of the New York State Soldiers' Home and in my representative capacity as a Grand Army man. In all my experience I have never found a man in the executive chair who was more ready to help the veteran than David B. Hill." To maintain their old prestige, to retain their accustomed majorities, Democrats must, as ex-Secretary Whitney the other day conjured them to do -for the sake of party principle and party success-sink a'l private griefs, all personal differences and disappointments, all old grudges and resentments. After the two great victories of 1890 and 1892, which Efted the Democratic party once more into power and entrusted it with the responsibilities of government, it is the Democratic party itself which is on trial in this year's congressional elections. It is Mr. Cleveland's administration and policy which the Republicans are assailing. Beyond all comparison the most important point to be defended, if Democracy is to be preserved, is here in New York, where David B. Hill holds the fort, not for his own sake, but for the sake of the whole party. There is no parallel in the history of American politics to the splendid courage and personal unselfishness which this leader of the New York Democracy is now exhibiting.

What a candidate for Governor is Mr. Morton! His managers dare not let the people see him. He hugs the fire at his eastle on the Hudson and pays profesionals to pull wires for him.

And sometimes, when my lonely soul Heareth in dark God's thunders roll, I wonder—her sweet worshiper— If God's dark storms break over her. And if they do I know my breast Would bear them all to give her rest.

THE WHITE HORSE.

"This canyon ought to have a history, Pablo," I said to the guide as, supper finished, I leaned back on my blankets and dreamily gazed at the scene before

It was a summer night—a night in the southwest, where nights are perfect. The moon was at the full, and not a cloud was in the sky to obscure her radiance or the light of the myriad stars which bore her company. The air was cool and bracing, yet balmy, and there was just enough breeze to lull one's spirits and cause him to forget the world and indulge in fanciful reveries such as only southern breezes in-

We had pitched our camp on one of the sloping hills on the south side of the canyon, where a little stream of clear, sweet water rippled from a spring in a ravine down into the canyon below. Above us was the sighing, odorous forest of juniper and pinon. Below was a little stretch of velvety grass extending clear to the floor of the canyon on both sides of the little stream. Right and left stretched the canyon itself, its walls, precipitous for the most part, rising grandly hundreds of feet high on

"It is beautiful, Pablo," I continued. 'It must have a history of some kind or a story-no?"

"Si, senor, that it has-aye, that it has," answered the Mexican, lighting a fresh cigarette and puffing at it reflectively a moment. "Would the senor hear it?"

"By all means, Pablo. Go ahead." And here is Pablo's story as nearly as I can translate it, for he spoke in Spanish:

"Does the senor see the cliff on the other side, how high it is? That is the cliff of the White Horse. It is many hundred feet high and straight up and down. And at the top when the moon is a little higher the scnor will see the white horse. It is a great white rock on the edge of the cliff, and by clear moonlight it looks like a white horse. It has not alway been there, and now, they say, on the anniversaries of a certain day the ghost of old Don Fernando comes and rides it along the edge of the "Don Fernando? Oh, aye. May the blessed saints have mercy upon him!" ejaculated Pablo, crossing himself.

"Many years ago Don Fernando Cortez-he was a grandson or something of the great Cortez-lived over above beyoud the canyon several miles. Don Fornando was rich and lived in a grand house and had many servants and slaves. He was a great entertainer, was Don Fernando, and people used to come many miles-hundreds, thousands, yes, -to his grand dinners and balls.

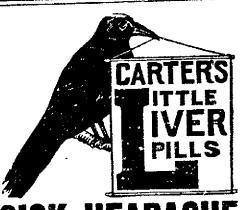

"He was not a good man. No. He was a cruel master and hard with all his people and made them all hate him. He was kind to only two living creatures. One of these was his beautiful daughter, the Lady Ysabel; the other was his great white stallion, the largest and flectest horse in all the country. These two the old don loved as his two eyes, and well he might. Yes. The Lady Ysabel was not only beautiful, but she was kind and good, and all the people loved her as much as they hated the don, which was a great deal. She had golden hair and eyes like the sky, and it is said the birds listened when she sang. And the horse-aye, he was wonderful. He was as big as three ordinary horses, and his tread shook the ground. He had a long, white mane and eyes that flashed fire and was almost as much feared as the old don, who alone dared go near him.

"The Lady Ysabel had many suitors. The wealthiest and most aristocratic men in all the country came to sue for her hand, many of them from faroff California, and some, it is said, came even from Spain. But the Lady Ysabel would have none of them. She leved her pony and her dogs and birds and her people, but a man, no. One after another came, but she turned them all away. So after a few years the old don became tired of what he called her foolishness and swore she should marry, and at once, a man whom he had selected for her.

"This grieved the Lady Ysabel very much, for not only did she negleve any of those who had offered the aselves to her, but her heart was already givengiven to one of her father's peous, a young man named Jose, whom she had helped to nurse through a terrible illness. Him she used to meet by stealth nearly every night unknown to any but themselves. But one night when the Lady Ysabel's wedding day was near at hand she and her lover were seen together, and the story came to the ears of the old don.

"He started to find them, swearing to kill them both, but they had been warned and had taken two of the fleetest horses in the stables and fled. With mad haste the don saddled his white stallion and pursued them. They had taken then way over the hills blindly, but some instinct led the don to follow the direction they had taken, and in a short time he had them in sight riding over the plateau beyond the canyon

"When the lovers saw they were pursuch they put their jaded horses to their highest speed, hoping to escape, but soon they found it was too late, and as the old don, with terrible curses, pressed them closely they leaped to the ground, ran to the edge of the cliff, and clasped in each other's arms sprang into eternity together.

"And the don? For days he raved like a madman and seemed to know no one. Then he became quieter, and they thought he would be himself again. But one moonlight night they misred him, and several set out to seek him. He was riding up and down the edge of the cliff yonder, raving and blaspheming terribly, and none of those who had come to find him dared approach. For hours he rayed. Then, just as the moon came from behind a cloud, they saw him ride back from the cliff a little distance. Then he wheeled sharply and shouting, Now, my friend, both together! he rode full speed at the precipice. But at the edge the white stallion halted suddenly, and the don went over alone. In midair he shook his fist and hurled a curse at the friend who had deserted him at the last minute, and then and there the great white stallion turned to stone. There he stands, senor you can see him plainly now-still looking over the precipice. It is from him that the cliff and the canyon get their name.

"And it is said by the superstitious, senor," continued Pablo, drawing closer to the fire and shuddering slightly "that on the anniversary of old Don Fernando's death and on Lady Ysabel's saint's day the ghosts of Lady Ysabel and Jose ride forth on the plateau, and that of the old don pursues them riding the white stallion, which leaves its station at such times. And-oh, senor, for the love of God, look!"

Startled, I looked quickly across the canyon. The rock which appeared so very little like a white horse seemed to vanish as though in mist. Then there was a series of blood curdling shricks and curses, and flying along the edge of the cliff rode three persons on horseback, and one, behind the others, rode a great white horse. It was only a moment, and then the drunken cowboys passed out of sight, and the tiny fleck of vapor which had for those few seconds kept the moonlight from the white horse rock moved on, leaving the rock standing out in the clear light, just as before. Still shivering with the sudden fright I had had, I turned to Pablo. He had fallen in a fit and was lying rigid, with flecks of foam on his lips. I brought him round soon, and he sat up, his eyes staring

"Well, Pablo," I said in as steady a voice as I could command, "you must have had a dream. You've been plunging around and yelling for a full five "What, senor, I? A dream? Then is was not -"I think it was the bread, Pablo. You ate a big supper, and that hot sour bread would kill an Indian.' Pablo concluded not to run away, as he might have done if I hadn't been able to convince him it was only a dream.-R. L. Ketchum in Romance.

Possibilities of the Indian.

The Indian has within him the capabilities upon which to base a better manhood and citizenship despite the barbarous instincts attributed to him. With no incentive to work and with encouragement to vice and idleness on every hand there are today upon the reservations many excellent and worthy Indian men and women. Though stolid and sphinxlike in demeanor, the Indian has the feelings and affections common to human beings.

With no educational advantages they are men of remarkable sense, often approaching a high order of ability. The old chief of the Sioux nation, Spotted Tail, was a striking figure, whether taken physically or intellectually. The late Mrs. Elizabeth Winans, a Sioux woman, during a life of Christian service for her people was actuated by a purpose as pure and noble as that shown by any philanthropist of the country.

Among the Indians are fine natural orators and statesmen equaled by few educated white men. Under education they have shown themselves quick and ready learners, competing easily with white pupils of the same age. I have observed them at thier studies and am convinced that they are as capable as white children of grasping the ordinary branches taught in the common schools. It has been my pleasure to hear ad dresses from full blooded Indian college students which would do credit to undergraduates of Yale or Harvard .-- Senator Kyle in North American Review.

Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal and so divert his course that he may succeed in the. I have studied a great dear upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did, to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he had along really well as fur as the preliminaries on. Now I have thought over what I a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he had done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tel him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which cardinarily affect a young man struggling in this kennhic established on this comordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to test him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who wer successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much val uc, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they wer alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from fail ure as ju-tified by the natural ability he may possess.

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him. the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find none unt the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find note untailed lides a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a boo giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to day. Her was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 1 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of the same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attaine more eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I neede in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the info mation with which to educate my boy ank secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first cheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greate Men and Women, told in each instance or a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is od how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series wi end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—ar I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men ar Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, activand alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literarm man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history. The most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history. wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to ha wonder is that some one has not inought of it before. Let no one seems to ha done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd of fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accompli great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better lu or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that there are shrewd graphics and written without bies and without himself without himself. biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow-a that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great vume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the many and specific pages. personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

A HAND MAN.

The Tale of a Poor Prisoner Who Was Locked Out.

No anecdotic recollections of Governor Curtin would be complete which did not include some of his own stories, for he was the prince of yarn spinners. A group of friends were tan and one day about the reformatory influence of kindness in prison discipline. "I've heard a good deal about kind prison keepers," said Mr. Curtin when the others had finished, "but I never met one myself who was the equal of an old fellow who kept the county jall in the village where I began practicing law. He fed the convicts so well and housed them so comfortably that they became greatly attached to him and he could trust them to go about at will. He used to hire them out to the farmers in the neighborhood during the harvest season and turn an honest penny for the taxpayers in that way. Early one morning, while I was sweeping out my office, I was approached by one of the convicts.

"Young man," said he, "are you the lawyer?" "I am," said I.

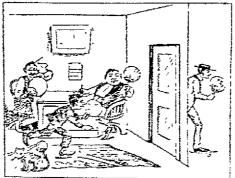

"I want you to get me out of jail on a writ of habeas corpus, and I want it right away."
"Well, hold on, my friend," said I.

"We have got to have a reason to show to the court before we can ask for a writ." "I've reason enough," he exclaimed. The cruelty of the keeper makes life there unbearable."

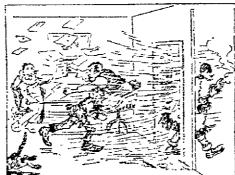

"Oh, pshaw!" said I. "Don't tell me such nonsense as that. There never was a kinder keeper in charge of a jail." "Judge for yourself," he insisted.

Yesterday I was working out at Mr. Walkinshaw's, and we had a big lot of hay to get in, for the sky was full of rainclouds. So when the jail horn blew for bedtime I staid and helped get the hay under cover. It was after dark when I got back, and, would you believe it, that hardhearted cuss of a keeper had locked me out! I had to sleep in the street and caught rheumatism in my bones. It settled things in my mind. I'll stay not another night under the roof of a man who'll treat me like that, says I to myself. So. Mr. Lawyer, I want you to get me out besundown. Do you hear!" -- Kate Field's Washington.

He Let Go the Painter.

Every sailor has his story of the mistakes which "landlubbers" make over the names of things at sea, which always seem to be exactly the opposite of what they are on land. A new boy had come on board a West India ship upon which a painter had also been employed to paint the ship's side. The painter was at work upon a staging suspended under the ship's stern.

The captain, who had just got into a boat alongside, called out to the new boy, who stood leaning over the rail, "Let go the painter!

EveryLody should know that a boat's painter is the rope which makes it fast, but this boy did not know it. He ran aft and let go the ropes by which the painter's staging was held. Meantime the captain was wearied with waiting to be cast off. "You rascal." he called, "why don't you let go the painter?"

"He's gone, sir," said the boy briskly. "He's gone, pots, brushes and all!"-Tit-

There is a railroad in one of the southrn states that is notorious for its erratic running gear. Not long ago a resident of one of the towns along its line received a telegram to the effect that his brother was coming from Atlanta to pay him a visit, and he communicated the fact to his wife. "How is he coming?" she inquired.

"Over the Q, X, and R., I reckon."

There are in group seven sixty-one national and State banks, a considerable number of which have already joined the association.

After full justice had been done to this part of the entertainment, Rev. Dr. Robinson opened the after-dinner exercises. Those present sang together the hymn, "Blest be the tie." Then the pastor paid a tender March, June and September of each | Mrs. S. R. Corwin, who were present December 15th, of which banks will since died. He also extended the cordial greeting of those younger to their guests and spoke earnestly of esting and practical questions will the reach and glory of Christian life as not measured by years. After singing, "How firm a foundation," very interesting addresses were given by Messrs. Bell, McNish and Hanford.
